NCJW GREATER PHILADELPHIA SECTION MEMBERS DO WHAT WOMEN DO BEST: LEAD and SUPPORT!

Pictured here are our Section's Advocacy Committee members successful in their advocacy efforts for legislation to assist the young victims of sex trafficking. Displaying their message at the State Capitol Building are Lynne Jacobs, PA Policy Advocacy Chair, Janet Ecksel, Linda Lempert, Legislative Chair, Rhonda Mandel and Lea Wecht.

On March 14, five intrepid NCJW advocates arrived in Harrisburg to speak to legislators about a bill we have been supporting: Safe Harbor for young victims of trafficking. As you may recall, this bill passed the PA Senate last year, and our anti-trafficking coalition is eager to have the House take it up before the end of this session. If passed, this bill will ensure that trafficked youth identified by police are not treated as criminals.

Our group split up and visited 15 Representatives' offices, both Democrats and Republicans. Legislators and aides listened attentively as we explained the purpose of the bill and the bi-partisan support we have so far. It was a good day for us because we were able to get two more co-sponsors for the bill!

MORE INSPIRATION TO VOLUNTEER

- NCJW is in its 125th year of women's activism and volunteerism to benefit women, children, and families.
- Women marched en masse in protest of anti-immigration policies, acts and rhetoric of bigotry, and threats to women's reproductive rights.
- Women were a majority in the People's Climate March.
- Women were a majority in the March on Science.
- Women constituted 86% of calls to congressional offices (March 2018 survey).
- Women are at the forefront of grassroots resistance (over 5,000 groups across the country) working to preserve, protect, and advance social justice and the core values of our democracy under assault by policies of our current President and his administration.
- An unprecedented surge this year of first-time women candidates running for offices from local school boards to state legislatures to the U. S. Senate.

President's Message

This month we celebrate Passover, the holiday we love, that brings together families and friends who sit together at the Seder table telling the story of how Moses led the Jewish people to freedom. Moses was not afraid to "speak out" against slavery to free the Jewish people. We must remember, that even today we have to continue to speak out to KEEP our freedom!

Our history has shown us that time after time, when there is injustice in the world, we do not sit back. We speak out to let others know when our freedom of speech is being threatened. We speak out to support these incredibly strong young high school students who want to see gun violence stop. We speak out when we vote and we speak out when our human rights are being threatened.

NCJW women have always spoken out when there is a need to do so. Everything we do, whether it is our advocacy work, our community service or our programming and education work, we take action.

We do what we can to bring together divergent cultures and to bring together like-minded coalitions to work on mutual goals. Our message is clear: create a safe, inclusive community, build a better world for women, children and families and strive for justice for everyone.

So, when you join together at your Seder table, open your doors to others, let all who want to join you do so. Engage in discussion on the meaning of freedom and open the eyes of your children and grandchildren to understand never to take their freedoms for granted and to always "speak out" when there is a need to do so.

I wish all of you a wonderful Passover and I look forward to seeing you soon at our upcoming events and programs.

Featured Speaker: Dr. Marisa Porges
"EMERGING ISSUES IN U.S. SECURITY"

Wednesday, April 11 7p.m. (Doors open at 6:30 p.m.)
SANCTUARY - REFORM CONGREGATION KENESETH ISRAEL
8339 OLD YORK ROAD ELKINS PARK, PA 19027

At a time, when our news media reminds us that we are in a "cyber war" that threatens our democratic processes and institutions, it is a privilege to hear from someone who has extensive experience in cybersecurity and technology as well as counter terrorism.

Marisa Porges is the eighth Head of The Baldwin School, a 130-year-old all girls' school outside of Philadelphia. She is the first alumna to serve as Head of School.

Before joining Baldwin in Summer 2016, Dr. Porges was a leading national security expert in the U.S. government and academia. Most recently, Porges worked at the White House as a senior policy advisor and White House Fellow at the National Economic Council, handling cybersecurity and technology policy. She also served as a counterterrorism policy advisor in both the Obama and Bush Administrations, at the Departments of Defense and the Treasury. Dr. Porges' academic scholarship focused on radicalization and violent extremism, including at the Council on Foreign Relations. This work included extensive research in the Middle East and South Asia, interviewing former al Qaeda and Taliban, Syrian rebel fighters, government officials, and local tribal leaders.

Marisa began her career serving on active duty in the U.S Navy, as a Naval Flight Officer flying the EA-6B Prowler. She received her Ph.D. from King's College London, M.Sc. from the London School of Economics, and A.B. from Harvard. Her work has been published in the New York Times, the New Yorker, the Wall Street Journal, and more, and she's been featured on CNN, CSPAN, Al Jazeera, and other media outlets.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS COMMUNITY SERVICE - VOLUNTEER OPPORTUNITIES

READERS WANTED FOR OUR HOLOCAUST ESSAY CONTEST

This year four schools will be participating in our Holocaust Essay Contest: Springfield Township Middle School, Upper Dublin Middle School, Community Academy of Philadelphia (a charter school) and Paxon Hollow Middle School. Students' essays will express their thoughts and reflections in response to Holocaust themed readings (e.g. Anne Frank) a movie or a visit to a museum. Their writings, which may include poetry are not to exceed two pages. Hopefully, we will start receiving essays to read by the end of April, beginning of May. Our committee members read them at their leisure in their own homes. They grade them and then we have a meeting of our committee where we read aloud the better essays and take a vote. My co-chairman, Celia Rothkoph and I will then attend the closing ceremony at each school and present a certificate of participation to each student and prizes to the winners. Please let me know if you would like to read essays and help select the winners. We welcome new members of our section...as well as our seasoned readers. Many of you as former teachers are very qualified to do this. Let me know if you are interested.
