National Council of Jewish Women is a grassroots organization of volunteers and advocates who turn progressive ideals into action. Inspired by Jewish values, NCJW strives for social justice by improving the quality of life for women, children and families and by safeguarding individual rights.

We are a 501 (c)3 nonprofit organization. Our web site is www.NCJW.org

President's Message

As we move forward to this New Year, I have given much thought as to what I want to say to you in my first President's message. To begin with, I am thrilled to be your Greater Philadelphia President representing you, our members and volunteers. It is an honor and a privilege to serve an organization with such an incredible history with contributions that have been made to society both here and in Israel. NCJW has mobilized women for 120 years to advance social and economic justice for women, children and families, and has been in the forefront of social change.

Some of you have asked me why I decided to give my volunteer time to NCJW after a 38 year career as a staff professional and consultant working in numerous Jewish agencies and organizations. My answer is simple. NCJW's mission grabbed me as did the bright, active women who care so much about human rights, tikkun olam, (repairing the world) and advocating for those who cannot speak for themselves. NCJW women do not just "talk the talk" but they take action. Whether it is fighting for social and economic justice, helping immigrant women at Ellis Island years ago, campaigning for women's suffrage, campaigning for civil rights, or playing a key role at our recent 2017 March in Washington, we are there. Our voices are heard trying to strengthen our democracy. Our work in the Greater Philadelphia area has contributed to women and families who struggle, by providing clothing, school supplies, tutoring and other essential services in addition to advocating on a local, state and federal level on their behalf.

As the High Holiday season is fast approaching, it is a time for reflection and introspection. We look at ourselves to assess who we were in the past year and who we want to be in the year to come. I also would like you to join me in assessing where we, at NCJW, want to be in this coming year. I, for one, would like us to do the following:

- Work hard to increase our membership by asking at least, one person we know to join.
- Increase our visibility in the community so others will recognize the incredible work we do.
- Develop coalitions with other like-minded groups and organizations in the community. We become stronger and more visible when we work together to make positive changes in the world.
- Take on local projects and advocacy work that will show the younger generation of women that our message affects women of all ages, especially now when the voices of women have never been more needed.

As I said in my installation speech in June, "WE ARE THE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF JEWISH WOMEN, BUT WE ARE FOR ALL PEOPLE, REGARDLESS OF RELIGION, RACE, GENDER OR SEXUAL ORIENTATION".

I would love to hear from you with ideas and suggestions to strengthen our section. We now have a telephone number where you can call to reach us and your message will go to the appropriate Vice Presidents and Committee Chairs.

I wish you and your families a very sweet and healthy New Year.

L'Shana Tova.
Barbara Nussbaum

YOU MADE A DIFFERENCE!!

On behalf of the Board of Directors, I want to thank all of you who participated in the 2017 Personal Giving campaign. Due to your generous contributions, we are able to meet our National Support obligation without taking funds from our Section's treasury. This enables us to do more for our local community projects. Your continuing support is so very appreciated!!!

Personal Giving Chair

Unity Against Hate Must Start at the Top

On August 13, 2017, NCJW CEO Nancy K. Kaufman released the following statement:

“Today we mourn a victim of hate yet again. By all accounts, Heather Heyer was in Charlottesville among those protesting the so-called ‘Unite the Right’ rally because she felt a call to stand on the side of justice and equality. She was brutally and fatally wounded by a car that deliberately smashed into the crowd where she stood. The rally she protested drew Neo-Nazis, KKK members, anti-Semites, white nationalists and other purveyors of hate to Charlottesville to oppose the removal of a statue of Confederate General Robert E. Lee from a prominent public park, but also to announce the strength of its supremacist following.

“That we have always had bigots and haters among us, we know all too well. That they feel emboldened by the tough guy rhetoric of the president of the United States is new in modern times. President Trump’s condemnation of ‘hatred, bigotry and violence on many sides, many sides’ was an obtuse failure to stand forthrightly against white supremacy and anti-Semitism. Stronger statements issued later from the White House and Ivanka Trump, among others, but none attributed to Trump himself, do little to fill the vacuum of leadership apparent on Saturday.

“Marchers asserted that they were ‘tired of seeing white people pushed around’ and chanted ‘Jews will not replace us.’ There are not ‘many sides’ to such a confrontation, but two sides — the anti-racist, anti-fascist side and the un-American, white supremacist side. Everyone must be crystal clear about that, beginning with the president of the United States.

“In addition to Heather Heyer, we also mourn the two state troopers killed in the line of duty policing the event. Their deaths underscore how high the stakes are when fanaticism takes to the streets. The Justice Department is right to launch an investigation into the violence inflicted on the marchers. The city of Charlottesville and Commonwealth of Virginia will no doubt conduct their own investigations as to how the response to the march was handled and who may be culpable for the crimes committed. But the first person who needs to reflect on his role in encouraging and fomenting the forces gathered in Charlottesville Saturday — beginning with his promotion of the birther movement and continuing with racist dogwhistles during his campaign—is Donald Trump.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT
Update on Sex Trafficking

Question: Who was there behind the scenes to help a recent graduate of Dawn's Place residential program with her new apartment?

Answer: NCJW Greater Philadelphia Section Board Members: Zelda Stern, Judy Fried, and Patti First who donated household items. Susan Horwitz, Diane Plotnick, Rhena Kelson, Judy Wenzel, Lynne Jacobs, and Barbara Nussbaum all of whom donated funds toward a Bed, Bath and Beyond Gift card. Celia Rothkopf who instantly offered to pay for a mattress.

Special thanks to Carelyn Martell, the assistant manager of "Mattress Firm" in Jenkintown for cutting the delivery price in half, and being most helpful with a balky company computer system and to FBI agent Alex who will deliver the donations to the Dawn's Place graduate.*

Legislation Update: The Safe Harbor SB851 (the anti-sex trafficking bill) passed the PA Senate unanimously. Now it is in the PA House which may be an uphill battle.

Stay alert for our e-mail updates on SB851 as well as the status on legislative efforts involving reproductive rights, immigration, among others.

Linda Lempert, Legislative Chair

*A copy of a letter of appreciation from FBI Special Agent Robert Parks of the Violent Crimes Against Children Unit for the NCJW donations to a victim of Human Trafficking can be viewed on our NCJW section's website.

Holocaust Essay Contest

This year our record number of schools participating in the Holocaust Essay Contest included a Catholic school, a charter school in Philadelphia and four suburban schools. Needless to say, we had a lot of reading to do. Upper Dublin alone sent us essays from all 12 of their 6th grade classes. Our large "pool" of NCJW volunteers helped us meet the challenge. Thank you to our readers: Rhena Kelson, Julie Goldman, Essie Cutler, Joyce Eveloff, Sandra Lewis, Susan Horwitz, Diane Plotnik, Joan Sax, Barbara Katz, Lee Tonik, Harriet Gran, Carol Aronoff, Roz Fudell, Lila Windheim, Barbara Lederer, Hedda Chairnoff, and Sandy Fryer. A special thank you to Sandra Lewis, Joyce Eveloff, and Barbara Katz who came to the rescue when time was running out and prize winners had to be voted on. Every student who participated received a printed certificate. The winners received gift certificates of up to $50. Let us hope that by studying the horrors of the past, the current generation of young people will see to it that it never happens again.

Evelyn Goldhammer

The National Council of Jewish Women, Philadelphia Section, sponsors a Holocaust Essay Contest every year for middle school students. The students read books on the holocaust, meet survivors and/or visit the Holocaust Museum in Washington. Pictured are the top winners at Springfield Township Middle School. Come and cook, serve and greet the families staying at the Ronald McDonald House at Front and Erie Aves. Many have come great distances for their critically ill children receiving treatment at St. Christopher's Hospital for Children. That our volunteers provide a measure of comfort is reflected in one parent's wistful comment, while looking at our volunteers, "this feels like what my own parents would be doing for us if they could be here".

URGENT - TIME CRITICAL RESPONSE NEEDED BY AUGUST 23

HAMEC (The Holocaust Awareness Museum and Education Center) will be conducting a facilitators' training session at the KleinLife building, located at 10100 Jamison Ave., Suite 210 for current and new volunteers on August 30, 2017. The training will include two segments, beginning at 5:30 pm. Part I will consist of distribution and discussion of the updated Facilitator's Handbook, and the facilitator role and responsibilities prior to, and when accompanying survivors to Witness To History programs. This segment of the session will end by 6:45 p.m. Part II, beginning at 6:55 p.m., is an optional training session, and is an introduction to the "Skype In the Classroom" Witness To History Programs. It will include instructions on how to operate the Skype program. This portion of training will end at 7:30 p.m. Pizza and soda will be served.

Volunteers should call Geoffrey Quinn, Education Director at HAMEC at 215-464-4701 by Wednesday, August 23rd.

HIPPY, HIPPY HOORAY!

The Home Instruction Program for Parents and Youth (HIPPY) has a lot to cheer about. Almost 50 children participated in ABC Move-Up Day at HIPPY Diversified Community Services. Fifteen children completed Year One; 32 children completed Year Two. Of the 32 children,, 15 had been in the program since the first year and have completed two years. The expectation for next year with three groups is 120 children.

Our NCJW Section gifted a copy of CHICA CHICA BOOM BOOM, a colorful rhyming alphabet book to each child to compliment the theme of Move-Up Day. Since we are known as people of the book, it seemed like an appropriate support. Their success is exciting, and we salute Yael Tacher, their Director!!

Women in Politics: Are We Making Headway?

Panelists:

Dr. Valerie Arkooch, a former practicing obstetric anesthesiologist is the current Chair of the Montgomery County Board of Commissioners. She has brought her studies in medicine, economics and public health to her dedication to public service. In so doing, Dr. Arkooch has earned the recognition necessary to gain leadership positions to advance the causes of high quality, affordable, and accessible health care and to address the challenges women face in the workplace and as political candidates.

Diane M. Ellis-Marseglia, is currently serving her third term on the Bucks County Board of Commissioners. A clinical social worker, she has worked with children and families for more than two decades. Hallmarks of her public service include demands for responsible government spending, transparency and ethics. Ms. Ellis-Marseglia's wide ranging advocacy includes environmental, mental health and substance abuse issues.

Suzanne Mayes, JD, is an attorney who has been active in politics for twenty years. She has been a Republican Committeewoman in Whitmarsh Township and was appointed to a Pennsylvania State Judicial Nominating Advisory Panel. Ms. Mayes' non-partisan political action is focused on increasing the number of women in key governmental positions. She has earned a national reputation for bi-partisan work in advancing women and diversity in public company boardrooms and public sector positions.
