Student's Rights

A case is pending in the Pennsylvania State Supreme Court which will determine equitable school funding in our state. The suit was brought by school districts and parents. Through our Vice-President of Advocacy, Liz Downing, we signed on to support equitable funding with our coalition partners, who make up Pennsylvanians for Fair Funding. Liz will be speaking to this issue at a meeting of Bucks County School Representatives.

Efforts to censor books in the Central Bucks County School District continue. At the last School Board Meeting, Liz read from a letter (below) by Susan Kuklin, author of “Beyond Magenta”. In her letter, Kuklin urges others to see the importance of students’ “exposure to a wide range of backgrounds, perspectives, and aspirations” as basic to their education. She acknowledges a parent’s right to refuse a book for their child but not to deny others a privilege.

Dear Members of the Central Bucks County School Board,

Thank you for the opportunity to write to you as the author and photographer of Beyond Magenta: Transgender Teens Speak Out.

I created this book having four goals: 1. To give trans and nonbinary young people the opportunity to publicly define themselves on their own terms. 2. To provide accurate, relevant information. 3. To let other trans, nonbinary, or questioning youth know that they are not alone. 4. To help those who are not part of the LGBTQ- community understand those who are.

Back Story:

When I began researching Beyond Magenta in 2010, as far as I knew no mainstream publishing houses had published books that featured trans or nonbinary young people. And yet, young people were bullied, mocked, kicked out of their homes, and some even murdered. (They still are.) Given these circumstances, as I began working on the book, I thought it particularly important to understand who these youths are and what leads them to the physical and emotional changes they make.

To that end, I met with numerous professionals in the field doctors, psychologists, social workers and attended LGBTQ+ conferences and meetings. I worked with a respected transgender health clinic to find as diverse a population of participants as possible. Six transgender and nonbinary youth from different backgrounds and experiences stepped forward. We spent hours and hours together as I interviewed and photographed them. The interviews were later edited, transcribed by me, and turned into first person narratives. Parents, who were extremely supportive, provided family photos. Every interview was voluntary and reviewed by the participant and experts for accuracy and authenticity. I am grateful and honored that the participants trusted me to share their deep, personal feelings and experiences with me and the public at large. Subsequently, the many, many thank you letters and emails from teens and their parents reinforced my premise that the book was sorely needed.

In my view, part of one's basic education should include an exposure to people with a wide range of backgrounds, perspectives, and aspirations. I believe it important that we celebrate cultural differences in a way that enables young people to not only see their own selves on the page but learn about and appreciate others.

I also believe that if some parents do not share these goals and do not want their children to read a particular book, that is their right. But by the same token, other families should not be deprived of their right to decide what is best for their children. How do we get beyond this impasse? We are blessed with excellent teachers and librarians who are trained to provide well-rounded collections for their schools and libraries and make educated judgments as to what is reasonable reading matter for students. If a parent does not want their child to read a certain book, they should feel free to ask the teacher or librarian to provide an alternative.

I am optimistic that books, like Beyond Magenta, will encourage readers to lead their lives in a more empathetic mindful manner.

Yours sincerely,
Susan Kuklin

I would like to close by stating that I support the existing Library Policy 109 which endorses ALA professional standards.

Reproductive Rights

Roe vs. Wade is in increasing peril as an increasing number of state legislatures have passed bills severely restricting a woman's right to choose and thus, placing their lives in danger. Our NCJW Section has offered our membership opportunities to educate ourselves on the issues raised by such legislation which is filled with misinformation.

On April 19, Rhonda Mandel, one of our Pennsylvania State Advocacy reps facilitated a program, "Abortion: Medical Issues, Facts and Lies. Our speaker was member, Sherry Blumenthal, an OB/GYN doctor who among many affiliations, is a founder of the Pennsylvania Medical Society's Women's Section.

Sherry covered gestational stages, fetus viability and the non-existent "partial birth abortion". We learned about measures anti-choicers make to thwart choice such as ending abortion funding through Medicaid in the 1980s. Another is the designation of a pregnant woman as an emancipated minor as long as she does not seek abortion.

Importantly, we do not have to fall prey to partisan dichotomies. We can define ourselves as standing for wanted pregnancies and the right for women to control their reproductive lives.

Women's Reproductive Rights are the theme for this year's Washington Institute

You can view Sherry's presentation here: <https://youtu.be/ZIdWledujiM>

Registration is still open. You can even attend virtually.

Getting To Know More About You

First I watched my husband developing photos in his darkroom. Then I watched our son making paper constructions, collages, drawing, painting and writing. Then I watched our daughter playing piano, flute, violin, oboe and guitar. When they were in college, one day I happened to say aloud, "I think it might be fun to paint." On a holiday from school, my daughter brought me some painting supplies. I dabbled, started taking lessons and have been exploring different styles of oil painting ever since.

It's been many years and I'm still a student at Woodmere Art Center.

I love it!

UPDATE FROM THE GRANTS COMMITTEE

Dear Members,

Our Section's Grants Committee awards small grants, not to exceed $500, to organizations that assist, through their programs and initiatives, the needs of women, children and families. We are pleased to announce that during this past fiscal year we have provided grants to the Mitzvah Circle Foundation, Pegasus Therapeutic Riding Academy, National Giving Alliance and SOWN.

Please take a moment and think of organizations that you support or are familiar with and ask them to submit a grant request. They must qualify as a IRC 501(c) (3) organization.

Feel free to contact Wendy Rader, Grants Committee Chairperson, at wrbarbiegirl50@gmail.com or 215 692-0245 with any questions.

Supporting Dawn's Place -- A Long-term Commitment of Greater Phila Section Members

Since 2014, NCJW volunteers have generously provided household supplies for a residential program, unique in Philadelphia, known as Dawn's Place. It is a home for women who were victimized by sex trafficking or prostitution, and it provides a secure environment for these women to rebuild their lives.

Dawn's Place is staffed by Sisters of Saint Joseph and does not receive any level of government assistance. When our section got involved, we took on one of NCJW's national priorities—working to eliminate sex trafficking and to support survivors. We looked for a local group to partner with, and Dawn's Place was eager to have our help. They appreciated us as women of faith working to help any people who may be in need.

Collecting household supplies for them was a natural role for us to play. Of course, it was easier when we could bring the supplies along with us to the monthly luncheons. (We all hope those will resume soon!) In the meantime, the need for supplies is ongoing. Any products we contribute allow them to spend their limited funds on other things.

For example, I recently learned that the house's boiler has completely broken down. (The house is old!) The cost of a new one will exceed $18,000, which as you can imagine, was not in their budget. If you would like to make an individual donation toward this effort, any amount would be most welcome. Simply go to their website <https://www.ahomefordawn.org/donate>

Our next regular collection of household supplies... paper goods, cleaning products, etc... will be on Wednesday May 4, noon-1 PM in the parking lot of Giant in Willow Grove. Find me in my bright blue KIA Soul. Thanks and I look forward to seeing you.

Lynne Jacobs

Thanks so much for your continued support of these efforts.

Dawn's Place is a unique program that helps both foreign born and American women who have been victimized by commercial sexual exploitation (CSE), commonly known as "sex trafficking" or slavery. Dawn's Place works to improve the lives of women trapped by, or at risk for, CSE by providing housing, trauma recovery services, vocational training and other services. We also raise awareness of CSE via education, prevention, public policy reform and community collaborations. Residents come with various backgrounds often including: incarceration, drug and alcohol rehabilitation, sexual abuse, childhood sexual abuse, physical abuse, emotional abuse, insufficient medical care, poor nutrition, and separation or estrangement from family and country of origin. Through the residential program of Dawn's Place, women can receive the important social enhancement, life skills, therapeutic and educational services necessary for their recovery after escaping a dangerous life of exploitation or slavery. Women are referred by various agencies including: Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE), the FBI, the State Department, Criminal Justice System, and social services agencies. Women may also refer themselves directly.

Mitzvah Circle was created to fill the gaps, to provide items that are not covered by government assistance. Clothing, toothpaste, diapers, and deodorant are items that people need every single day, but not all can afford to buy. Mitzvah Circle is here so parents can go to work and kids can go to school or daycare.

Hello HAMEC Volunteers!

We are excited to finally announce docent training sessions for our new, permanent exhibit. If you completed the docent training for last year's temporary exhibit already, this new training session will still be a helpful and necessary update as the exhibit has expanded significantly.

Although we have not been able to offer many docent volunteer hours in the recent past, as schools are starting to schedule in-person tours with us again we are hopeful that we'll be able to offer some docent shadowing and tour-leading opportunities this summer and more so after the Fall season opening when school starts up again.

The two currently scheduled docent training sessions will be held at HAMEC (8339 Old York Road, Suite 203/205, Elkins Park, PA 19027)

at: 10 a.m., Thursday, May 5th and 12:30 a.m., Thursday May 19th

If you are interested in joining either of these trainings for the new exhibit, please contact Ruth Almy (ruth@hamec.org) directly to schedule yourself for a specific session.

I hope to see many of you in the coming weeks!
